

Disclaimer

AviationFacts.eu is an initiative of the Aviation Academy at the Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences (HvA). Students and teachers share knowledge with politicians and the general public to ensure discussions are based on facts. The facts are presented in fact sheets: short reports on current aviation themes.

AviationFacts.eu composed the content of this site with the utmost care, but we cannot guarantee that the content will be fully accurate and complete at all times. We provide no guarantees for websites that AviationFacts.eu links to in any way, nor can we be held liable for such third-party content. We cannot be held liable in any way for texts posted on the site. The information supplied on the website is subject to change and may at any time be altered, supplemented or removed by AviationFacts.eu.

We cannot be held liable in any way for images posted on the site. Wherever possible, images on our site are used in close consultation with the owner. However, it is not always possible to identify the original source of images that are sent to us in order to ask for permission. If you find copyright-restricted images on the site, please contact us. Any copyrighted images restricted by copyrights will be removed upon request.

AviationFacts.eu accepts no responsibility for damages resulting directly or indirectly from the content of this website.

Copyright

The copyright on material found on this website is held by AviationFacts.eu, unless indicated otherwise. You may read and download this information, but texts and images may not be changed, sent or sold without the express consent of AviationFacts.eu.

Privacy

We value your privacy and will keep your personal data confidential. AviationFacts.eu will use your data for our administration and to inform you about our work, for example by sending you our newsletter. Data will not be provided to third parties. You can request access to your data or have it updated at any time.